

Web-community and web-citizenship

The selection concerned personalities of scientific community that have studied the theme of webcommunity and web-citizenship in social, cultural, economic, political sense in the age of knowledge globalization. Ian Witten is well-known in international scientific milieu especially in the field of the development of internet search engines and computer sciences, organization of digital libraries, machine learning, text compression, speech synthesis and signal processing, but also in network theory, information ethic, legality of information and data access in the web-community, guardianship and education of the citizens of web community.

Ian Witten

- Professor of Computer Science at the University of Waikato, New Zealand,
- Director of the New Zealand Digital Library project

Find an up-to-date calendar on: www.unisi.it/santachiarara

WEB-COMMUNITY AND WEB-CITIZENSHIP

June 2009

LECTURES

Opening with Teresa Numerico
(University of Salerno)

10 June 2009
h. 10 - Aula Refugio

Realistic books and how to make them

10 June 2009
h. 11.30 - Aula Refugio

How the dragons work: searching ...in a web

11 June 2009
h. 10 - Aula Refugio

Wikipedia and how to use it for semantic document representation

17 June 2009
h. 11 - Auditorium

Digital libraries and developing countries

18 June 2009
h. 11 - Auditorium

An introduction to data mining

24 June 2009
h. 10 - Auditorium

Closing with Marco Gori
(University of Siena)

24 June 2009
h. 11 - Auditorium

Chair in Web-Community and Web-Citizenship

Prof. Ian Witten

