

The Managing Council of the University of Siena expresses its condemnation of the military operations taking place in Ukraine.

The Council strongly rejects the use of weapons and violence as tools for resolving any international dispute, according with art. 11 of the Constitution of the Italian Republic.

The University of Siena has always practiced and taught the values of solidarity, fair confrontation and integration between different countries and cultures, respecting the mutual differences, whose reciprocal knowledge, as opposed to the attempt of annihilation, represents a moment of growth for everyone.

On the academic front, the Council expresses its concern for the regular conduct of academic activities in Ukrainian universities, making itself available to provide support to students and scholars who have difficulties in continuing their training path or their research activities.
